S.T.A.R.S. Productions in conjunction with Shore Bets have brought together the bands Adrenaline, Power in Numbers, The Benjamins, Drop Dead Sexy, DogVoices and Screaming Broccoli to showcase the musical talents of all these exceptional bands.

"By showcasing the best talent, the talent buyers and music industry professionals can get a taste of what we have to offer, the audience can experience great music and the bands can increase their exposure to music industry professionals as well as new fans," said Meg Boyd, web designer/contract administrator for S.T.A.R.S. Productions.

"We chose the bands because they are of the highest quality and caliber," she continued, "no matter how big or successful a band is; and no matter how many years they've been playing, every intelligent band wants to continue to get out there and keep proving themselves." Each band has a certain style that comes along with their music and performance. Check out the artist showcase to experience each one.

"This showcase will be a blast," says Boyd. "The Budweiser True Music program is involved. This is a great collaboration between S.T.A.R.S. Productions and Shore Bets. We have an amazing reciprocal relationship, and in working together we provide the biggest and the best bands around."

The Budweiser True Music program generates nationwide exposure for hot, musical talent all across the country. For more information on the bands visit www.starsproductions.com.
